First Tree Farm in County Dedicated at Waterford.

Harry Brown (left) and Raynor Brown of North Waterford

The first tree farm in this part of the State was dedicated last Thursday afternoon at Waterford, when appropriate exercises were held at a 40 acre plot belonging to Raynor Brown. The site is one of some 25 lots owned by Mr. Brown in the vicinity totalling some 5,000 acres. For three generations the family has practiced improved forestry methods providing a continued crop of forest products.

Richard Waldron of Bethel, chairman of the dedication and a member of the State Tree Farm Committee commented on the operation and introduced Norman Gray of Freyburg, also a committee member, who outlined the tree farm plan and noted that on the plot which the group inspected Brown

REMEMBER WAR DEAD LEGION COMMANDER URGES

Members of The American Legion were urged to be among the first to put on memorial poppies on Poppy Day next Saturday in a message issued today by Herbert Kittredge, Commander of the Mont-Alen Legion Post.

Reminding the veterans that the poppy is a symbol of remembrance for their fallen comrades, and provides very real aid for the disabled and needy children of veterans, Commander Kittredge said:

"We all remember those comrades of ours who gave their lives for America so on Poppy Day let us be among the first to put on their memorial flower. Wearing a poppy is a little thing to do but it has big meaning. It means that we honor and are grateful to those who gave their all that America might remain a free land. We who returned safely from war service must certainly owe this symbolic gesture to those who did not come back."

"And when we put on a poppy, let us remember, too, those veterans who are enduring suffering and sickness, and the veterans' children who are in need, and let us give generously for the little crepe paper flower which some disabled man has made for us to wear."

The women of our American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets throughout the day to bring the memorial flowers to the public. I am sure every American Legion member will give them his encouragement and any help they may need in carrying out this mission of patriotic service."

Glen Mesevre and friends of Hingham, Mass., spent the week end in town.

Faith In Prosperity

WASHINGTON — "The prosperity of every American, whatever his station in life, depends on American business and industry producing more wealth through production of more of the goods and services for everyday living," Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said to me. "Thus," he said, "our prime objective at the Commerce Department is to help business to do this better job of production and distribution through the improvement of our various services."

We were driving past the Jefferson Memorial en route to the Washington National Airport, working our way in stops and starts through the heavy 5 o'clock traffic of government employees hurrying toward the Virginia residential districts. I had visited with Secretary Weeks at the Commerce Department and since we both were flying to speaking engagements we continued the interview en route to our planes.

"On the Run"

The Secretary had had a busy day with a heavy calendar, writing a speech and shaping up organizational policies with his wife. Under Secretary Walter Williams and other key men in his executive family. A score of newspapermen had followed us to the Secretary's private elevator, calling out questions on personnel matters. Since he was overdue at the airport his replies were given "on the run." He was typical Washington scene.

The questions I put to Secretary Weeks were designed to bring out his rounded opinion on the nation's economic future—the broad and better future of all of us. I respect his opinion both as former head of one of America's substantial industries and as the Secretary of Commerce. Though new on the job, he has recently had access to the many business barometers constantly being compiled by the department. Without hesitation he said to me: "Put your faith in the American business system, and strongly recommend your readers to do so, too. This magnificent American machine—financed by those who have saved, managed by experts in administration and production, and operated by labor can do the job in war or peace if wise government gives encouragement in every possible way.

Picking Up Slack

Some transitions will occur as, at a later date, defense expenditures taper off and industry is diverted to normal production. But plant and equipment expenditures are today advancing, despite the fact that some defense-supporting programs already have reached their peak. And limitless frontiers are opening in research laboratories which lead to all sorts of new things, new processes and new worlds of progress."

Secretary Weeks, a New Englander and a graduate of Harvard ('11), pulled himself up through the business world using his own initiative, enterprise and horse sense. He interrupted his early career in a Massachusetts banking house to serve with the four Field Artillery Battalions, 26th Division, in the thick of its European campaign in World War I. At war's end, he became interested in manufacturing. He joined the staff of Reed & Barton Corp., famed silversmiths. When called to Washington by President Eisenhower, he was Board Chairman of this firm and also of United Car Products Corp., and he was nationally recognized for his knowledge of the business world.

No Panopticon

As Secretary of Commerce, tough-minded Sinclair Weeks doesn't seem inclined toward pampering business. "We in the Commerce Department and the public as a whole," he said, "expect business to assume statesmanlike responsibilities to its new freedom from governmental backgating. This requires good management-labor relations, self-discipline and the daring venture spirit. It urges also an appreciation of the fact that world trade is a two-way street."

Businessmen who take about economy in principle and then act it of responsibility, and selling on business will meet the challenge.

DALE CARNEGIE

* AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" *

WALTER P. HICKEN, 16 Baldwin Street, Montpelier, Vermont, says as a child he was sickly. Here is a resume of some of the trials that beset him. During his third year in school he had mumps, measles and whooping cough. This left him in a further weakened condition, resulting in a terrible speech impediment, a combination of stammer and stutter.

At the age of twelve he developed a goiter and an attempt was made to remove the growth by X-ray. However, knowledge of the X-ray was limited, and a severe burn resulted which involved medical care for years.

He finished grade school in eight years but he would not attend high school. Humiliation over his speech impediment brought on a nervous breakdown at sixteen that resulted in his being completely shut-in for three months. At eighteen he had another breakdown brought on by the embarrassment of the speech impediment.

Finally he obtained a diagnosis of his impediment, the glat of it being that the trouble was mental and that for a sum of money, beyond their means, he could be cured.

Grasping at this thought he bought books on applied and practical psychology. He studied long hours and attempted to devise a system of speech correction, using the trial and error method. After eight years and many set backs he made progress that convinced him he could effect a cure.

He obtained a position driving a bus so that he would be forced to talk to the public. Despite his handicap, he built a desire to operate a school and help others to have normal speech.

So he left the employ of the bus company and accepted a position of manager of an Air Show (stunt flyers). In this position he had to book shows and act as publicity agent and announcer and he had to talk before groups of from five hundred to fifteen thousand people in two years.

Studying day and night he obtained a certificate as an Instructor in Navigation and Meteorology, and during the war he was employed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration as an Aircraft Communicator. Following the war he taught for several years on the G. I. Training Program and through the results proved to himself that he could teach successfully.

"Life," says Walter Hickin, "is like the weather; after the storm, the sun always shines."

Economic Highlights . . . .

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual—National and International Problems. Inseparable From Local Welfare

Few specifics of recent times have been received with the enthusiasm given the one made by President Eisenhower before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Many agreed with David Lawrence, long a forthright critic of our foreign policy, who called it, "The greatest address of our times on international affairs...." The President himself obviously considered it to be one of top importance—he was painfully ill with food poisoning but insisted on making the address in person against the advice of his doctors.

It was not the speech of an extremist. He did not reject recent Russian peace overtures nor did he accept them at face value. He laid down a positive program for ending today's hot and cold war and with it a set of principles which hold that self-government and free elections for all nations are indispensable, and are the key to peace.

He told the Kremlin, in effect, that it could have peace or war, as it may choose, and pledged that the United States is ready to serve the needs, rather than the fears, of the world. There was no shred of appeasement in the speech—and there was no arrogance or saber rattling either.

The President created the large view that Korea is simply part of a world-wide problem—not a separate problem, competitive in itself. This, of course, is the view that practically all informed observers hold. And he called upon the Soviet Union to cooperate in certain specific needs, which can be summarized as follows:

1. An immediate end to hostilities in Korea, coupled with political discussions leading to the holding of free elections in a United Korea.

2. An end to the communist-inspired叛乱 in Indochina and Malaya.

3. A treaty for Austria which will free that unhappy little nation from economic exploitation and military occupation.

4. An end to the division of Germany, which he termed unnatural, and the establishment of "a free and united Germany, with government based upon free and secret elections."

The key to everything he said, as David Lawrence also pointed out, "... is self-government—the right of every people, including the Soviet people, to choose their own form of government."

Not long ago the reaction of Russia to this world, in all probability, have been one more campaign of vilification of the President, the United States, and the free world. It was not the case this time. Pravda, which is always the voice of the Kremlin, treated the speech guardedly but politely and printed a summary of the High Soviet spokesman spoke in general terms of Russia's desire to work with the United States and the rest of the world to end war and assure peace.

So matters stand now. The great question is whether Russia is sincere—or whether her current peaceful attitude is simply a blind lull to sleep the Western world, to cause a cutback in the defense program, and thus to prepare the stage for more extensive Soviet aggression on a future date. No one can answer that question with conviction and those who carry the heavy responsibility of framing high policy are treading warily.

At the same time, some hard-headed experts think that Russia may be pretty much on the level this time—if only for the reason that she has more than enough headaches to deal with at home, and hasn't the resources and energies to spare for costly foreign adventures.

In any event, the President has given this country and the world as clear and as positive a program as anyone could ask for. None can doubt where we stand.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Knoxville, Iowa, Express: "Too many of the things we call benefits are not what they represent. No government can support the people."

Washington, D. C., Post: "The Department of Commerce has announced that, beginning April 1, it will get out a daily newspaper on Federal purchases, the first time Uncle Sam has entered the daily publishing field. The Commerce newspaper, which will sell for only 25¢ a year on a subscription basis, is in direct competition with several private enterprises."

Ambridge, Pa., Citizen: "Argentina was once a country noted for its production of beef cattle. Its prosperity depended on trade with the rest of the world. Under Peron a serious meat shortage has developed and a rising inflation plagues Argentina's economy. The poor he promised to help are worse off than they were before."

Waco, Texas, Messenger: "While it is apparently true that dictators will not thrive in a democracy, it is also true that whenever people fail to vote there are open avenues over which people travel towards dictatorship."

Maine 4-H club boys and girls are enrolled in about 8,000 projects in agriculture and homemaking and allied subjects. They learn to do by doing.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Veterans receiving benefit checks from the Veterans Administration who change their address, go back into military service, or suspect their check may have been lost in the mail should take VA into their confidence. M. L. Stoddard, Manager VA Center, Togus, Maine, said that only in this way can veterans expect to receive payments regularly, or not receive payments due them.

Although his advice is aimed at men newly discharged from service it is practical information for all ex-GIs.

VA checks, except for USLII dividend payments, can be delivered only to the persons to whom they are made out, at the address listed on the check. Postal employees are not permitted to forward such mail, and checks not deliverable must be returned to the Treasury.

If a veteran moves, he must notify the VA regional office where his records are kept. All he needs is a letter over his own signature, giving his old and new addresses and his C-number. VA will authorize remailing of checks returned for incorrect address.

Stoddard sounded a special warning to men receiving disability compensation who are going back into service. Any money paid them for time after their return to active duty, he said, will eventually have to be repaid to the government. In such cases, the veteran should inform VA of the date of his return to service, so his name can be taken off the payment rolls. After discharge, he can reapply for disability compensation.

The veteran who thinks his check has been lost in the mail or stolen should notify VA immediately, giving complete information as to amount and date of the check, and of course his name, address and C-Number. VA will take steps to recover or replace the check.

WORTHY REPEATING

"The grand total of federal taxes collected in Connecticut in 1952 was $1,178,997,059. Just the increase in these federal taxes for 1952 over 1951, was more than the state's own budget for all its home affairs!" Bridgeport (Conn.) Post.

"The economy has been forced with a powerful stimulant to the point where we are more than a little giddy. Now comes the question as to just how fast we can taper off!" Boston Globe.

"We incline to the Humphrey theory that the U.S. has come to fulfill the costs so that we may enjoy spending what we earn in our own way instead of having the government spend so much of it for us." Waterbury (Conn.) Republican.

Q—What procedure is required for amending the U. S. Constitution?

A—The Constitution itself states in Article V: "The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose Amendments to this Constitution, or, on the Application of the Legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments, which, in either Case, shall be valid to all Intents and Purposes as Part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other Mode of Ratification may be proposed by the Congress . . . ."

Q—Could a Constitutional amendment be proposed and ratified without a vote of Congress?

A—According to the American Law Section of the Library of Congress, this is an academic question since all amendments so far have been proposed by Congress. However, the legal specialists said even if Congress did not propose the amendment and the alternative method for proposing an amendment—by Constitutional convention—were employed, the Congress probably would have to vote on a resolution to submit the amendment proposed by Constitutional Convention to the States for ratification.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, May 21
Fear not; for I am with thee, (Isaiah 43:10) Read Psalm 91:1-6 or I John 5:1-5.

BOMBERS thundered overhead
At the little family sound shelter in the trench. At the bombs fell, the mother, the father and the children sat in tense silence. Only the terrified baby in its mother's arms cried out.

Suddenly, the little five-year-old boy reached out his hand toward his baby brother. The baby's fingers took hold of it. "Don't cry," the older brother said. "I will sing you a song. Then you won't be afraid." He sang.

"Do not fear, God is near.
All the bright stars say."

The child, the son of Buddhists, had been attending a church school under the trees. It was there that he had learned to sing this song and to worship.

Life brings to us fears, uncertainties, sorrows; but that which in a day of terror brought confidence to the heart of the little boy is ever the same message for all God's children. The victory that overcomes the world is our faith in Christ.

Prayer

How grateful we are, Father, for Thy presence with us in life's way. We entrust ourselves to Thy care. Help us to go forward in quiet trust, knowing with certainty that Thou art near; all the night and day. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
PROBLEMS OF THE CHRISTIAN CONSCIENCE (TEMPERANCE)
LESSON FOR MAY 24: I CORINTHIANS 8: 7-13; G: 18-20
GOLDEN TEXT: I CORINTHIANS 8: 13

The matter of which Paul writes was that of eating meat that had been offered unto idols. It had been offered unto idols and then taken away and placed on the market. The question was whether it was right or not for Christians to eat such meat. Was it contaminated by the fact that it had been employed in heathen worship?

Some of the Christians did not believe that eating such meat was wrong.

But there were some among the Christians in Corinth who did not believe they should eat that meat offered unto idols. Among these Christians were some who had once been pagans and who had offered unto false gods, and it was possible that these would be badly influenced by something that might appear to them as a compromise with heathenism. They could not see how meat offered to idols could be eaten by Christians without placing approval upon idolatry.

There was something to be said for each side. But Paul saw there was still another thing to be reckoned with—the influence a man might have upon others in eating meats offered to idols. And the principle he laid down would solve many difficulties. He wrote that if meat should make his brother to offend, he should eat no more meat as long as the world should stand.

If you could justify to yourself moderate drinking, should you exercise the right to claim if your example hurts others?

And Jesus answered him, saying:
If thy brother offend thee, rebuke him; if he repents, forgive him.
(Matthew 18: 15-17)

We need not go beyond ourselves and our daily needs and desires to know the everlasting truth in the words of Christ Jesus. Neither a million dollars can give us, in our spiritual and material, a single comfort or peace of mind, nor can only God through His Son, our Savior, can give us that blessing.

The opening ceremony was led by Marjane Brown, Nikki McMillin, Claire Berry and Dixie Brown. Lorinda Freeman gave a report on the first aid kit she had purchased for the Patrol. Marjane Brown brought in a cherry blossom and a violet which she had mounted to go in our flower booklets.

Each girl then reported on wild flowers and birds she has seen. The seeds we planted seem to be growing very well, we will soon have a contest with these. The girls then worked on their note books they are making. Next week we plan to go on a hike if it does not rain too hard.

NEW "H" BONDS PAY

3 PER CENT INTEREST

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds, Series E and H combined, in Oxford County for the four months ended April 30, 1953 amounted to $154,533, or 20.4 percent of the year's quota of $758,000, according to George H. Viles of South Paris, County Chairman of the U.S. Savings Bonds Committee.

The State as a whole has reached 26.2 percent of quota, Chairman Viles stated, and our county stands in 10th place among the counties.

The Series "H" bonds are familiar to all of us. Most of us are purchasing them regularly, but are we informed about the new Series "H" bonds?

These new bonds pay a liberal 3% interest when held to maturity (9 years, 8 months). Payment of interest is made by U.S. Treasury check mailed directly to you each 6 months, and they are redeemable at par at any time after 6 months. Most banks will take your order for these bonds.

Enjoy the convenience of certifying your interest by mail and the secure feeling of knowing your funds are invested in United States savings bonds. Series "H" bonds have been designed for the individual and only individuals can buy them. Remember you get the full 3% by holding these to maturity.

I wish to thank each and every one for their thoughtfulness shown me during my illness this winter and for the lovely flowers, gifts and cards sent me while I was at the hospital. I especially want to thank the Sunset Rebekah Lodge for the pretty rose bowl and the Pleasant Valley Grange for the nice sunshines box. It was all very much appreciated. It is nice to know one has so many friends in time of sickness.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Cranberry Ham Balls
(Serves 4)

2 cups ground, cooked ham
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Dash of cloves
1 can jellied cranberry sauce
1/2 teaspoon vinegar

Combine all ingredients except cranberry sauce and vinegar. Shape into eight balls. Brown on all sides in 2 tablespoons melted fat, in skillet. Heat cranberry sauce in small saucepan; add vinegar. Pour over the ham balls, cover skillet and cook for 20 minutes.

can mix and store, then bake at your leisure.

Yeast doughs for rolls and coffee cake keep for several days when refrigerated. Take off part of the dough, enough for your needs and let the rest keep chilling until ready to fry.

Make your salads in advance, except for tossing together! They will be crisp-cold and more palatable. Wrap washed and prepared vegetables in plastic bags before serving time.

Having breaded cutlets or fish? The egg and crumb coating will stay on better during the frying process if they're well refrigerated after the coating is put on them.

For better quality, higher yields, and bigger profits plant Maine Blue Tag certified seed potatoes. It pays.

NOTICE.
In keeping with the common practice in most communities our offices will be closed all day on Saturdays during June, July, and August.

GOULD WINS BATES RELAYS

Gould demonstrated clear superiority in scoring power Saturday at the ninth annual Bates relays, the schoolboy track carnival that has been serving as State meet preview in recent seasons. Gould deluged meet champion Wells, which was the State Class S (small schools) winner last year.

Gould accounted for 49½ points, Wells 43 in a good neck and neck run. A sunshiny day permitted the entire card to be conducted as scheduled outdoors, though the track was a mighty heavy and only one meet record was bitten off, that by Gould's mile relayists, quarter-milers David Fleet, Peter Oakes, Wendall Bragg, and Frank Murphy, tying the 1950 pace set by Farmington combination at 3:47.

Performance of Gould's Erwin Bacon was the sensation of the morning field competition as the Bethel boys assumed a slender lead. Bacon was a triple champion in the shot, discus, and javelin, and he tied for third in the high jump to net 16½ points. Gould led Wells 23½ to 23 entering the afternoon battling.

Aside from its record-equalling mile relay combine, Gould had another relay winner, in the 440 event. The Huskies were shut out only in the broad jump. Wells drew a blank only in the medley relay.

Members of the National Honor Society will hold their annual initiation of new members at the camp of Headmaster and Mrs Ireland at Kesar Lake on Friday of this week. Initiation ceremonies will be in charge of Mario Mills, Henrietta Swain, Paul Bartlett and Beverly Lurvey who were received into the organization last year. Juniors: Frank Flint, Paul Russell, Carroll Melville, Mary Anne Myers, Valeria Stevens, and Gail Waldron.

"THE NOSE TREE" TO BE PRESENTED BY BETHEL PLAYERS

On this coming Saturday morning the doors of William Bligham Gymnasium will open at 9:30 a.m. and at 10:30 the show will start. This is a new venture for the Players in that it is their first children's play.

The play was written by Rev. Charles Pendleton and is a children's play in three acts, based on an old Celtic folk tale. This fairy story tells of Jonnie, Thom, and Mick, three tired soldiers returning home. On their journey they enter a strange kingdom and there meet an engaging elf, Red Jacket, who wants to help them because they are discouraged and poor. He gives them three magic gifts, a cloak, a trumpet, and a purse. Later, when the soldiers return to thank Red Jacket for his kindness, they find the kingdom in a terrible state, having fallen under the influence of a wicked witch named Hexen.

King Goodman is distressed because his once beautiful daughter, Princess Graceful, has changed without knowing it and is becoming as ugly and sly as Hexen. Jonnie, Thom and Mick discover a very odd tree, called the Nose Tree, which bears two kinds of fruit—which have strange results when eaten. One makes your nose grow long; the other makes it short. With the advice and help of Red Jacket and by use of their magic gifts and the fruit of the Nose Tree they are able to destroy completely the power that Hexen holds over Princess Graceful. Once again, King Goodman's kingdom becomes a happy, gay place to live in and the three soldiers have indeed done a good deed.

Mrs Faye Taylor is directing this play and has a cast of very capable youngsters under her. The parts of the three soldiers are to be played by Mark Freeman, Richard Saunders, Melvin Jodrey; Red Jacket, the elf is played by Judy Howe; Hexen, the witch, by Betsy Chapman.
